Susan Lindsay is a co-editor of Lady Gregory's Townhouse (2009), showcase Chapbook for the Advanced Poetry Class at the Galway Arts Centre.

Shifting Narratives: The Fifth Province

Introduction:

We live within the story of a shifting narrative that in-forms our perspectives and lives. That story in Ireland is embedded in the shape-shifting geography of the Fifth Province. The more attentive we are to mythology the more creatively we can logically engage. To-day's society has an urgent need for redress: to pay attention to the myths and poetry that root the language of logos within the landscape of mythos.

Susan will read poems that invite you to engage and explore the question:

What is happening in the Fifth Province?

Biography:

Susan Lindsay has engaged with the Sile na Gig motif in Awakening - an unpublished 'myth for our times' and had her prize-winning Christmas Carol set to the music of the RTE Orchestra on The Tubridy Show. She is a co-editor of the recently 'sell-out' Lady Gregory's Townhouse – a showcase Chapbook from the Advanced Poetry Class at the Galway Arts Centre launched at an Over The Edge reading in Galway city and presented when they read at the Clifden Arts Week for the second year in succession in September last.
